Connect 2020

Connect 2020, the long planned construction project to connect East Link to the light rail system at the International District/Chinatown Station, began the weekend prior to the meeting. Construction was proceeding on schedule.

Rather than stopping service during this 10-week project, we chose to keep the system open for our 80,000 daily riders by running trains less often and having trains share tracks through the construction zone. This required a temporary transfer platform at Pioneer Square, which was successfully constructed prior to the 10-week period.
Sound Transit was not able to test this service level with real crowds under real conditions. So, much was learned between the beginning of the project and the meeting. It was estimated that trains would arrive every 12 minutes instead of the usual 6 minutes during peak hours, but after a week of service, the reality on the ground showed trains consistently arriving every 13 to 15 minutes. Riders were subsequently informed to plan for these slightly longer waits.

Trains took roughly one minute longer than estimated in each direction between Pioneer Square and SODO where they switched to single tracking. Since trains had to meet at Pioneer Square, a slower trip anywhere on the line meant that all trips have to slow accordingly. Otherwise, according to the ongoing daily reports from Operations, Construction, Security, Safety, Communications staff and Project Partners from the on-the-ground ambassador effort, Connect 2020 was going well.

The most important reports, came from customers. The agency was tracking rider reaction on social media, where the tone was positive to neutral. Responses to concerns and complaints was quick. The ambassador effort was been nimble, and the Ambassador Team quickly reassigned ambassadors to where they were most useful to customers.

Bicycles were restricted through Pioneer Square during Connect 2020, and new electronic bike lockers installed at Rainier Beach, SODO and UW were being well-utilized. There were 150 total rentals so far with bikes parked at the lockers for almost 500 hours. UW Station received the most usage.

Mr. Rogoff thanked the public for their patience during this necessary phase of construction.

Chair Balducci shared comments she received regarding Connect 2020 and how well the project was planned, in the face of the alternative option of a complete service disruption. Mr. Rogoff acknowledged those comments and many others received regarding station announcements and bicycle procedures during Connect 2020. He assured the committee that the agency was focused on constantly improving communication with the public.

Disadvantaged Business Enterprise Waiver

In 2016 the agency re-submitted a request to the US Department of Transportation for a waiver for having to consider non-minority women contractors as disadvantaged business enterprises. The issue was raised by people of color who owned trucking firms and were losing work and the agency’s disparity study showed no disparity for non-minority women-owned businesses. The waiver was granted at the end of 2019 based upon that disparity study, and Sound Transit was underway on a new disparity study.

Introduction of New Deputy CEO Mary Cummings.

Mr. Rogoff introduced Mary Cummings, the new Deputy Chief Executive Officer. Ms. Cummings came to Sound Transit from Pennsylvania where she had a long and distinguished career in higher education. She also worked in the Information Technology field in Europe and elsewhere.

Boardmember Upthegrove arrived at this time.

System Expansion Committee Meeting Summary Minutes
January 9, 2020

Reports to the Committee
Chair Balducci reminded the committee that the presentation on the NE 130th Street Infill Station would come before the business items.

NE 130th Street Infill Station Update
Kamuron Gurol, High Capacity Transit North Corridor Development Director, John Sleavin, Executive Technical Advisor, and Stephanie Ball, Finance Manager, gave the presentation. Mr. Gurol provided a brief overview of the NE 130th Street Infill project, reminding the Committee that project was approved in the ST3 Plan and slated to begin in 2024 for an opening in 2031.

He reviewed the results of the preliminary engineering approved in 2018, the increased cost estimates, and the three options developed for future committee and Board consideration. The options for consideration were to return to the original ST3 plan, to advance incrementally, or to advance fully with the construction in coordination with the Lynwood Link Extension, for opening in approximately 2025.

Boardmembers asked whether advancing incrementally or advancing fully would have impacts on other ST3 projects or the agency’s general financial capacity. Ms. Ball informed the Committee that the agency’s debt capacity would be reduced, but all projects would still be affordable. Boardmember Upthegrove asked what benefits the advance incrementally would provide over the other two options. Don Billen, Executive Director of Planning, Environment and project Development, informed the committee that it would provide more information with which to make a decision in 2021. Chair Balducci asked staff to bring more context regarding the three options’ impact on the agency’s debt capacity to the committee’s February meeting.
